

SUMMER INSTITUTE 2009: ITALY

May 18—29, 2009

“Food Aid and Food Security in Humanitarian Settings”

This course will explore the dynamics of the use of food aid, the largest single component of humanitarian emergencies. The course will review policies that guide the use of food aid, as principal controversies surrounding the use of food aid in emergency and transition settings. The course will also explore assessment techniques used to gauge the vulnerability of affected populations and their needs for food based interventions, as well as explore the food aid management system and its logistics. The course will be held in and around Rome and Bolsena, Italy. Field visits will be conducted to the principal UN Agencies involved in food aid (such as the WFP and the FAO) as well as diplomatic missions that determine food aid policies.

Open to both graduate and undergraduate students.

Program Fee

Includes tuition, fieldtrips, housing, and all meals.. Students must purchase their own flight.
One Course— Graduates: $3500 / Undergraduates: $3950

HTTP://PAYSON.TULANE.EDU/SUMMER-HOME.HTML

FOR MORE INFO, CONTACT:

Jackie Loonstra
Payson Summer Institute Coordinator
Phone: 504-865-5240
summer@tulane.edu

APPLICATIONS DUE BY APRIL 10, 2009